LITTLE CHILD KILLED BY LEWISBURG TRAIN

Eugene Barger, 21 Months Old, Mangled Beyond Recognition

WAS PLAYING ON TRACK

Eugene Hobart Barger, just 21 months old, met a very lamentable death on Tuesday afternoon, at Penn's Cave station when his little body was run over by the evening passenger train. His head was crushed, his body severed, an arm cut away, and he was so mangled that recognition was almost impossible.

The child was very active and a most lovable little chap. His mother thought he was at the barn with his father, but the latter did not know where the boy was playing. A team had been driven by the house a short time before the tragedy occurred and the child, who loved horses, is thought to have followed the wagon from his home, which is about one-eighth of a mile from the railroad, where he was playing on the tracks but is supposed to have fallen in an attempt to get away, as the train approached, so that Engineer Harry Paige, of Bellefonte, who was at the throttle, did not see him until his speeding train, running late, was too near to stop.

As quickly as possible the train was brought to a stop and a distressing sight, the remains of the child who had been so active a moment before and so unaware of the danger he was in, was witnessed by the passengers and trainmen, who quickly gathered to ascertain what had occurred. The remains were taken in charge by Undertaker F. V. Goodhart, of Centre Hall, and funeral services were held this Thursday morning, with burial in Georges valley cemetery. Besides the parents Mr. and Mrs. James H. Barger the child is survived by an older sister, Berenice, and a baby brother, Dean William.

AUTO WRECKED BUGGY

Forester William R. Hoover Painfully Injured.

William R. Hoover, forester in Green valley, was very painfully injured on Saturday night when a Ford coupe, driven and owned by C. S. Reese, of Bellefonte, crashed into the buggy occupied by Mr. Hoover.

The automobile was taken in custody by Sheriff Harry Dukeman and, being slightly damaged, it was taken to the Beatty garage. Information was made against Mr. Reese, charging him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Reese furnished bail for $400.

The horse ran away after the collision but was soon captured and proved to be unhurt. Mr. Hoover sustained several fractured ribs, as well as other injuries including bruises and cuts.

H. S. MILLER HONORED

Bellefonte Carpenter Remembered on Birthday Anniversary.

Harry S. Miller, of East High street, who is employed as foreman of carpenters of West Brothers, Philadelphia, the contracting firm in charge of the railroad storehouse new building in Juniata, was signally honored on Monday at noon. The force of carpenters, sixteen in number, presented him with a gold I. O. O. F. ring in honor of his birthday which was on Sunday.

W. A. Burdine, of Philadelphia, acted as spokesman for the men. In their behalf, he presented the gift as a token of their friendship and esteem. Mr. Miller responded with a speech of acceptance in which he expressed thanks for the valued present.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Barn and Contents on Walker Farm Burned.

Fire on Monday night destroyed the big barn, with its contents, on the Miles Walker farm in Ferguson Township, causing a heavy loss. The farm is tenanted by Milford C. Wieland and family.

The barn contained the season's crops, and in addition, 6 cows, 4 horses and 2 pigs were burned as well as implements kept in the building. It is thought the barn was set on fire and an investigation is being made.

Mr. Morris Resigns.

Charles A. Morris, for some time past superintendent of plants for the American Lime & Stone Co., at this place, last Thursday resigned that position. He will continue as a member of the board of directors of the company.

Quiet on Armistice Day.

It seemed much more like Sunday than any other day in Bellefonte on Monday when Armistice Day was observed. Practically all business places were closed and very few persons were about town. Even the sounding of the bells and whistles was omitted, so strikingly silent as compared to the noise usually accompanying Armistice Day celebrations. When the American Legion members did not lead in preparing a program, it seems everybody just naturally observed the day quietly but nevertheless with an impression that, in its solemn way, recalled the keen joy at the signing of the Armistice and ending of a distressing war in 1918. On Monday evening, following their business meeting, the members of the American Legion enjoyed a smoker.

STATE COLLEGE SENIOR INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Car Considerably Damaged As It Crashed Into Tree.

OTHERS ESCAPE INJURY

A number of Penn State athletes had a very narrow escape but were fortunate in avoiding injury when a Buick sport model they were driving crashed into a tree along the state highway west of the grade crossing at Rockview on Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock, Thomas Trimble, of Pittsburgh, being the only one hurt. He was taken to the Bellefonte hospital and his condition reported as favorable.

The car was driven by Ted Artelt, of Philadelphia, who plays right end on the varsity football team. Sharing the front seat with him was his sister, Miss Gertrude Artelt, holder of four swimming records. On the rear seat were Miss Betty Ryan, of Pittsburgh; Charles Moore, of Coatesville, winner of the Penn State relay last year, and Miss Nancy McKee, of Germantown.

The steering gear did not work properly, it was said, and the road is very narrow, being under process of construction at both sides where the accident occurred. The car first struck a rock and then a tree on the left side of the road, when it was gotten back to the highway but went to the right and struck another tree with such force that all were thrown to the ground excepting Artelt. He was unconscious for a time and was holding a piece of the steering wheel when he came to, but was not hurt. Neither was any of the others hurt excepting Timble, who is a son of a Pittsburgh judge and is a senior at the Pennsylvania State College. His parents were with him at the hospital the early part of this week.

FIRE AT STATE COLLEGE

Home of Bank Cashier D. G. Meek Damaged Slightly.

Fire at State College on Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock damaged the home and furnishings of D. G. Meek, cashier of the People's National Bank to the extent of several hundred dollars Most of the damage resulted from water and chemicals used in extinguishing the blaze.

The home is a three-story brick dwelling located on Beaver avenue and owned by Mrs. Annie Homan. The fire originated on the roof, presumably from sparks from the flue. The volunteer firemen were summoned and played two hose streams to put out the fire, as well as using considerable quantities of chemicals. The loss is covered by insurance.

Two Bungalows Robbed.

Penitentiary sentences are scheduled for thieves who recently robbed two bungalows on Fishing Creek if they can be traced down and arrested. Detectives have been assigned to the matter and $100 reward has been offered by the Fishing Creek Camping Association for arrest and conviction of the guilty parties. A year or so ago several Fishing Creek bungalows were entered and various articles stolen. The guilty party was quickly apprehended and sentenced to the penitentiary. During the last ten days the bungalow of Ellis B. Shaffer, of Lock Haven, located at Cherry Run, on Fishing Creek, was broken into and various cooking utensils were stolen, presumably by some persons who were planting a hunting camp. At about the same time the bungalow of T. H. Harter, of Bellefonte, located a short distance from the Shaffer bungalow, was entered and a number of dinner plates stolen. The thieves smashed in a window in effecting an entrance to the Harter bungalow. Judge Baird, who presides in the Clinton County courts, has repeatedly declared that any person convicted of robbing bungalows on Fishing Creek cannot escape a penitentiary sentence, regardless of the value of the articles stolen.

Burglarized Tyrone Store.

Early on Friday morning, the Conroth chain store in the Farmers and Merchants bank building in Tyrone was burglarized and $1,200 in cash taken from the safe, the combination of which was worked. Considerable clothing was also taken. R. M. Saxon is manager of the store and said Thursday had been a big day, being a pay day. He located Jerry Cohn, of New York, head of the stores, in Lewistown, and the latter went to Tyrone, where an investigation is being made, the police have some good clues upon which to work.

FINDING OF SKELETONS IS DOUBTFUL STORY

Many Versions Heard; Nothing Official Obtained

MYSTERY TO BE SOLVED

Apparently wild stories have been circulating throughout Centre County as to the finding of skeletons in the brush near the Devil's Elbow, along the highway in the Seven mountains. There are various stories and the one most told is as follows:

Two men on a motorcycle were traveling toward Milroy and failed to make the dangerous turn, dashing into the brush and over the mountain-side for 50 feet. They were not hurt but discovered a wrecked motorcycle and two skeletons in the brush near where they stopped. An investigation resulted in finding a Connecticut motor license for the year 1920.

Other stories say that it was a small car that was wrecked and an Altoona paper published an account, describing the accident as occurring perhaps several months ago, according to the condition of the bodies of the victims, five persons being found pinned under the wrecked auto, which carried a California license.

To solve the mystery, a letter has been written to the Coroner of Mifflin County and we expect to print his reply in our next issue.

MISS MAUVIS FUREY PLEASED

Thanks All Friends Who Elected Her Harvest Queen.

The photo is of Miss Mauvis Furey, who was the Harvest Queen at the Hallowe'en festivities of the Elks for the benefit of the Bellefonte hospital. She is greatly pleased with the aid given her by her friends as the letter herewith indicates:

Editor Bellefonte Republican:—

Will you please convey an expression of my sincere gratitude and heartfelt appreciation to the people of Bellefonte and environs, as well as to others from more distant points, who have so generously interested themselves in my candidacy for Queenship of the Harvest.

They have been so genuinely loyal, so whole-heartedly generous, that mere words cannot register a girl's gratitude on such an occasion.

It has been a glorious campaign and a wonderful victory - thanks to my multitude of friends, and I wish I might share with the girls who were my fine-spirited opponents, the full thrill of victory and the unalloyed joy which must always accompany personal success.

In view of the worthy cause for which we all worked so valiantly—Bellefonte Hospital—there is honor enough for all, and I freely share it with my competitors.

Please add a word of thankfulness and appreciation for the work done by the schoolmates.

Truly and sincerely,
MAUVIS FUREY

Quartette Entertained Prisoners.

The National quartette, who will render the opening number of the Lyceum course at the Court House tonight, had an open place on their schedule last night, and entertained the prisoners at Rockview. The occasion was a great musical treat for the prisoners. The program rendered was about the same as will be given tonight.

Institute for S. S. Workers.

On Monday afternoon and evening the Young People's leaders and pastors of the county will meet in the Methodist church in Bellefonte for instruction in young people's work. Miss Esther I. Williams will have charge.

Our Congressman is Working.

Hon. William I. Swoope, of Clearfield, Congressman from this district, was in Centre County the forepart of the week spending several hours in Bellefonte with friends. On Tuesday evening, Mr. Swoope spoke at a patriotic meeting in Centre Hall, his subject being, "A Citizen's Duty." While Congress has not been in session, our Congressman has been working. His office at 412 House Office, Washington, D. C., is open daily and two stenographers are busily engaged. Upwards of 100 letters are answered every day. Pension increases have been secured for 20 Civil war veterans and 15 Spanish-American war veterans. Mr. Swoope has been instrumental in securing claims for 200 World war veterans, securing appointments for 20 ex-service men and 15 women. He said he would be pleased to have any of our readers write to his Washington office regarding matters of the federal government or having our folks call at his office, should they be in Washington. He went to Pittsburgh yesterday to be at the Veterans Bureau where a large number of claims from this district will be considered.

PUBLIC MEETING TO PLAN DRIVE FOR HOSPITAL

Expert's Report Approved by Committee and Board

SHOULD HAVE $100,000

The residents of Centre County who are interested in the hospital will meet in the Court House next Monday evening, the 19th, to consider the very important work of planning for much needed funds. The committee appointed to consider the future of the hospital—Col. W. Fred Reynolds, Judge Henry C. Quigley, Miss Mary H. Linn, Col. J. L. Spangler, Dr. M. J. Locke, Robert P. Hunter, Mrs. R. S. Brouse, John Blanchard and Charles Schlow—met last Friday evening with the hospital board of directors at the Y. M. C. A. and heard the report of Henry C. Wright, of New York, an expert in hospital building, which was approved and will be the main topic for discussion at the meeting in the Court House.

To make the hospital modern and put it on a basis equal to the best in the east, as well as to have sufficient to meet other necessary expenses and pay off present indebtedness, will require a fund of $100,000. Plans for putting on the drive will be considered at the meeting on Monday night.

Following is Mr. Wright's report:

I spent a portion of Wednesday, October, 1, 1923, examining the existing plant of the Bellefonte Hospital, and thereafter made a verbal report to the Board of Managers, which in substance is here incorporated.

The existing hospital plant has the following major defects:

1. Location of Administrative office—

Findings. The hospital is administered with considerable difficulty and loss of motion owing to the fact that the administrative office is on the ground floor, on which there are no patients. The ambulance entrance is on the first floor, on which floor also is the operating room, and patients are on the first, second and third floors.

A superintendent in a small hospital must supervise practically everything, and the effort required of the superintendent in going from her office on the lower floor to the ambulance entrance, operating rooms, and patients on the various floors is very taxing.

Recommendations. The administrative office, particularly in a small hospital, should be so located that the superintendent without moving from the office, can keep track on the major operations of the hospital, such as the coming of visitors, the arrival of patients, whether walking or by ambulance, the preparation for operations, the easy access to the various services for patients.

To fulfill these conditions, it would be necessary in the Bellefonte Hospital to locate the administrative office on the first floor. The operating room is located at the rear of the hospital, adjacent to the one rear entrance. The public should not be allowed to come in by this entrance, nor should ambulance patients be brought in there. It would not seem practicable to relocate the operating room or the X-ray room, and without a relocation it would seem necessary to create a new entrance to the hospital on the first floor. I would accordingly recommend that an administrative office be created in the space now occupied by the drug and bath rooms, and that an entrance porch be built in front of this administrative office and adjoining the end of the male ward, and an entrance door be cut through from this porch into what is now the male ward, and that ward used as a waiting room. A door could then be cut from the waiting room into the administrative office, with clear glass in the door for observation. Also, put glass panels in the other two sides of the administrative office, so that there may be observation on four sides of the office. The office thus located would be well centralized in a position to control all entrances to the hospital, and the movement to the operating room. I would recommend closing the present front entrance.

2.—Ambulance entrance.

Findings. At the present time, all ambulance patients are brought into the door which is at the rear of the corridor adjacent to the operating room. Not frequently there comes with these ambulance patients, friends and relatives. The patient and those who may be with him, thus come in adjacent to the operating room, and may encounter the various movements that may take place in and out of the operating room. This is very objectionable.

Recommendations. No one not di-

Harrisburg Man Was in Bad Physical Condition When He Started on Hypo-Cod

Mr. John B. Bott, 514 Hamilton St., Harrisburg, Pa., writes as follows: I was so run down and weak before taking Hypo-Cod, that I thought that I would have to give up my work. I had no appetite, and was subject to dizzy spells when working. My mother would pack me the best kind of lunches and I would either give it away or take it back home. I would come home in the evening so tired out, that I would not be able to go out like other fellows. Every day I was getting weaker and weaker, finally a friend recommended Hypo-Cod to me and urged me to give it a trial. I got a bottle from a local drug store, and the results were wonderful. I gained four pounds on the first bottle and after taking several bottles, I feel like a different fellow. My mother has a hard time to pack enough lunch these days. At meal time I eat like a starved man. I am taking on weight and strength, and always feel good and full of pep. When I am through work I rush home, eat a big meal and after getting dressed, go out for the evening. I think Hypo-Cod a wonderful medicine and recommend it to all who are run down and in a bad physical condition." Hypo-Cod is sold by all druggists for $1.00 a bottle, or will be sent to you direct by the Earle Chemical Co., Wheeling, W. Va., upon receipt of this amount.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IT is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Your bath goes only skin-deep.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

THE SIGN

By JENNIE LITTLE

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THE man renewed his pleading.

"I can't understand this obstinate idea of yours, Len. You admit that you care enough for me, and yet you won't let yourself go. You know that before the war I stood back and gave Ed the right of way. I'm not begrudging him his happiness then, and never would have if he had come back to you. But to see you existing like this—earning your food each day with your own hands—and my salary spoiling in my pocket.

"If you were not so foolishly proud as to refuse help even! Why, Len, you hardly do exist; tell me, how many of those papers and magazines that I send do you read?"

She looked up miserably. He spared her the reply.

"Not one. Your daily conversation shows it. You avoid people and decline to become interested in anything that goes on outside these four walls. You are letting this paralyze your mind, your reasoning powers, that used to be so keen.

"Next week the firm is sending me to establish a branch office in Panama. Leave your dreary memories in this out-of-the-world village and learn to live again—with me. I want to do this for him as well as you."

She shook her head pathetically and he caught a glimpse of white in the hair that used to shine like burnished gold.

"He said when he left, 'Be waiting here for me,' and I must. I have no proof that he—that he—"

"But, Len," he rehearsed it patiently, "You know he couldn't come back, or even be sent back. We stood together when the shell came—he was never seen again. What more proof could you ask?"

"Such things have happened," she insisted. "Think if Ed came back! He could be very set and hard with anyone who deserved it."

She clasped her hands and stared up into the heavens.

"Oh, if He would only give me a sign from up there."

Ansel Clifford walked away, still pondering his problem. Suddenly he looked at his watch, and sprinted for the railway station.

Two days later he again walked up the weed-grown path, and entered the cottage, where she sat bent over her endless stitching.

"And so this will be 'good-by,' Len," he said, turning to gaze out of the window, pretending not to notice the shaking of her hands.

His eyes became riveted on something outside. He caught her arm with an excited exclamation.

Len, come out! Look up! What does it mean?"

On the porch he directed her gaze to the western skies, where in miracle-like whiteness against the intense blue, stood out the letters, "BE HAPPY.—ED."

The air seemed full of a pulsing clamor. A growl of thunder came from a single bank of clouds leaning against the horizon. The woman, staring spellbound at the phenomenon, failed to see the huge plane bird scurrying over the tree tops in the opposite direction.

As the last tracing faded away, she turned with a sob.

"Oh, Anse, He did send me a heavenly sign! It's all right. I'll go with you."

Her face portrayed something of the old-time joy.

Before Ansel Clifford and his wife sailed for Panama, he made another hasty trip to a distant city, and again sought out an aviator comrade.

"But," he remarked, as he wrung the other's hand, and then closed it over a roll of bills. "I don't know how much real angel messengers would charge for a job like yours, but I do say they couldn't beat it. If this isn't enough, call again on yours most gratefully. It worked like a charm. But don't come down to Panama skywriting till the old happy, sensible Len is back to stay.

"She's coming back fast, Old Ace, thanks to you."

"Mum's the Word!"

The village minister was motoring home one day after he had completed a long round of visits, when he overtook a girl plodding along the rough country road, carrying a huge basket. He recognized her as a servant who was employed by a farmer, an influential member of his flock. As he drew level with her he stopped the car, and, jumping out, he asked her if he could give her a lift, as he was going past the farm for which she was bound.

"Oh, thank you, sir!" she replied; and soon they had reached the farm gates.

"Thank you very much!" said the girl again, as the minister handed out her basket.

"Don't mention it!" returned the clerical gentleman politely.

The girl blushed prettily, and hung her head; then she looked up archly.

"All right," she said; "mum's the word!"—London Answers.

Two men passing down a back street saw a big fat man, soiled and untidy, sitting on a box cooling off. "That's a baker," said one man. Tree on Church Won't Be Killed

For three years efforts have been made to destroy this tree, growing in the tower of Trinity Diocesan church in Washington, but the tree has come back to life. The latest attempt to destroy it was made by boring holes in the tower and filling them with acid, but the limbs soon sprouted out as before. Now the members of the church have come to believe that there is some significance to the persistent growth of the tree and that it perhaps means new life and spiritual growth in their little church.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indians Gaining on Death Rate

Show Increase of 1,144 in Year —Osage Tribe Richest People on Face of Earth.

Washington.—Like his old friend, the buffalo, the American Indian is making a come-back. Figures recently announced by the bureau of Indian affairs show our American Indian population is now 344,303, a gain of 1,144 over last year.

"Not only last year, but for thirty years, the redmen have steadily been gaining on their death rate," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Today there are six Indians per square mile on reservations which comprise an area not much smaller than that of all New England. According to the best estimates available there was an average of only one Indian for every three square miles when white people first came to American shores. If only two-thirds of the United States were occupied by redskins at the present reservation population rate, there would be 12,000,000 Indians in the United States today.

Thousands Died of Plague.

"Massasoit gave the Pilgrim Fathers corn, but the fact is that Massasoit and his kith and kin lived for the most part by product of the chase. Deer, buffalo, bear and rabbit were their pork and beef, and berries and nuts their potatoes. Even verdant America could not support an immense population living in this fashion. The total Indian population at the time Columbus landed at San Salvador is set at about 846,000. If all the tribes, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, had assembled at one great meeting, they would have made up a community not so large as Detroit and only a few thousand greater than Cleveland or Boston.

"White men's guns decimated some tribes, disease, dissipation and epidemics which came with the white men spread death more surely. Small-pox epidemics swept through the western tribes three times between 1781 and 1837 with more fatal results than the influenza plague of 1918. A peculiar fever killed 70,000 Indians in California and Oregon in one year. By 1880 the Indian population had been reduced to 256,127, therefore the present population represents an increase of nearly 100,000 in thirty years.

Richest People in World.

"One American Indian tribe today is the richest people on the face of the earth. Beneath the lands of the Osage Indian tribe in Oklahoma oil was discovered. Their wells produce $50,000,000 worth of oil annually, and Uncle Sam, who handles the business for his red brother, distributes to each member of the tribe from $10,000 to $12,000 each year. In 1922 more than 29,000,000 barrels of oil were produced on Osage lands.

"Partial adaptation to the white man's ways and care by Uncle Sam are responsible for the increase in Indian population. The redman may still be a hunter, but a visitor to a reservation will find the redskin useful as well as noble. He is often a rancher, dairy farmer, gardener, weaver, pottery maker, rug maker, poultry raiser, typist, bookkeeper, miner, guide, and he even clips coupons.

Indians Now in the "Movies."

"Out of the ruin of Indian civilization more than 200 tribes have been salvaged. These tribes are lodged on nearly 200 reservations varying from tiny rancherias in California to the great Navajo reservation in Arizona and New Mexico, larger than the state of Maryland. The bureau of Indian affairs is their guardian. It is a government by itself, having a cabinet of six commissioners, and undertaking all-encompassing activities, typical of which are a probate court, trust company, public roads commission, orphan asylum, town building, and operation of a philanthropic association, bank, and employment agency.

"Recently the redman once more daubed himself with garish war paint, dressed himself in all his feathers, and hit the war path. The path led to Hollywood and the Indians broke into the movies. Uncle Sam gave permission for the Shoshoni and Arapano tribes of the Wind River reservation in Wyoming to go to the movie city to be used in the making of pictures."

Widow Finds $60,000 Husband Had in Box

Syracuse, N. Y.—Cash to the amount of $60,000 has been found in a safe deposit box of the Watertown National bank in the name of Jay F. Waful, who died here several weeks ago, it was learned here.

His will, filed for probate soon after his death, left an estate estimated at $25,000, but no mention was made of the Watertown bank. His widow, believing that something of importance was in the deposit box, received authority from the court to have the box opened, which was done a week ago, but the find was kept secret until now.

Mr. Waful at one time held a post in the Treasury department at Washington and later was a member of the federal prohibition forces.

Billions Due U. S. From 10 Nations

Number of Indebted Countries Do Not Even Acknowledge Their Obligations to Uncle Sam.

Washington.—The American debt funding commission met recently and approved the form of its annual report to congress, which contained the significant statement that the commission "hopes to obtain further adjustments with the various debtor governments at the earliest possible date."

While there was no elaboration on the expression from any member of the commission, the statement was regarded in many quarters as the first hint from official circles that another communication may be sent to debtor nations advising that the American government awaits their funding proposals.

The report recites the negotiations and settlements with Great Britain and Finland and the full liquidation of Cuba's debt, but as for the others little progress is reported.

Owe U. S. Over $7,000,000,000.

The commission now has to deal with debts of foreign countries amounting to $5,970,117,427, on which interest amounting to $1,088,457,478, has accrued.

The combined total of interest and principal owed by the several governments is given at:

Armenia	$ 14,263,196
Austria	27,664,065
Belgium	445,782,734
Czechoslovakia	169,423,344
Esthonia	16,788,728
France	3,917,325,974
Greece	16,125,000
Hungary	1,989,286
Italy	1,973,879,133
Latvia	6,032,478
Liberia	30,168
Lithuania	5,977,953
Poland	181,839,315
Rumania	43,218,878
Russia	237,242,054
Serbia	60,992,592

Certain Nations "Unheard From."

It was disclosed by the report that the commission has not been in touch "in any way" with the governments of Armenia, Austria, Greece, Liberia or Russia. The original loan to Russia was $192,601,297, made during the war, but nothing has been heard from that government since. As for Austria, Secretary Mellon has granted consent for a twenty-year postponement under authority of a senate resolution and therefore no principal or interest will come from that source for some eighteen years more.

Going into detail of the status of the debts with the other governments, the report says the Belgian ambassador expressed the hope in June, 1922, that he could on his return from Belgium lay before the commission definite proposals for the consolidation of the indebtedness of Belgium. Except for certain informal discussions, the report adds, no proposals or suggestions have been as yet received. The discussions concerned the consolidation and the exact status of the Belgian debt.

No Money From France.

"Representatives of the Czechoslovak government," the report continues, "who came to Washington last May, have returned to Prague after bringing about an agreement as to the amount of the debt of their country to the American relief administration and the United States grain corporation, but leaving for further discussion the final settlement with the War department and the United States shipping board. It is understood they will return to the United States this autumn to continue the negotiations.

"The government of Esthonia is expected to appoint representatives to negotiate with the commission shortly. The government of France sent a representative to negotiate with the commission in the summer of 1922. After a full discussion and the presentation of complete figures, the French representative returned to France to confer with his government."

No further proposals or suggestions have been received since his departure.

Mysterious Art in Oregon Forest

This woman's figure, masterfully fashioned in a solid rock, was discovered recently by Southern Pacific engineers while surveying a new railroad line near Crater lake in Oregon. Sculptors, artists and archeologists are deeply puzzled. Some declare it to be the work of nature, others say it is the work of a master who went out in the woods to do his stuff. The surface is so badly eroded that the means of carving cannot be determined

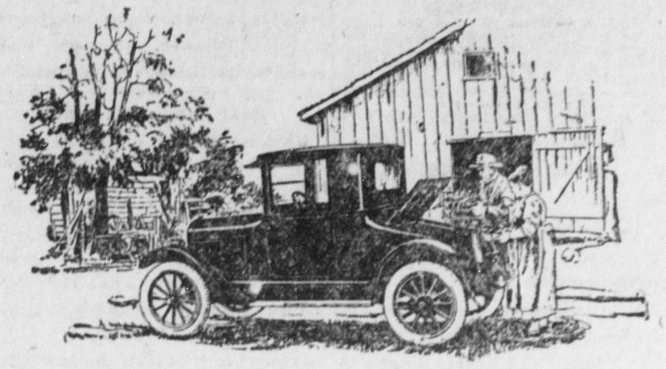
CHEVROLET

Every Farm Needs Two



EVERY farm needs two automobiles, one of which should be a closed model Chevrolet.

The open touring car is best for general farm use, carrying passengers or perhaps miscellaneous bulky produce or merchandise, but for cold or rainy weather, and for church or social use the family needs a closed car, either a 2-passenger Utility Coupé as illustrated, or the 5-passenger Sedan. The extra large rear compartment is a feature of the Coupé.

These closed cars are very finely made, furnished, upholstered and trimmed. The windows are of plate glass and can be lowered, providing as much air as an open car, yet affording full protection against wind, rain, snow or cold when raised.

With a second car on a farm, one is always available for those at home when the other car is out.

The low prices of Chevrolet make the ownership of two cars feasible for most farm families.

FEDERAL LAW ON HUNTING

Prohibits Shooting of Migratory Fowl After Sunset—South Dakota Hunters Face Arrest.

Hunting migratory game birds is permitted under federal regulations each day during the open season from half an hour before sunrise to sunset. Persons found hunting between sunset and half an hour before sunrise are liable to prosecution in federal court under the provisions of Regulations 4 of the migratory-bird treaty-act regulations. A state law recently passed by the legislature of South Dakota provides that waterfowl may be shot half an hour after sunset. The biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that state legislatures may pass laws to give further protection to migratory birds, if such laws or regulations do not extend the open seasons for such birds beyond the time prescribed by the migratory-bird treaty-act regulations. Although the state law permits shooting from sunrise to half an hour after sunset, a person so doing may be arrested and prosecuted under the federal law, administered by the Department of Agriculture.

A woman's nerves often make a man nervous.

Three Objections.

The old Scottish minister was tireless in looking up members of his flock and was never so happy as when he was visiting them in their houses.

He had noticed that for some time one hitherto regular church-goer had become very slack in his attendance at the service and he resolved to go and find out the reason for this neglect.

"Donald," he said, as soon as he was seated in the parlor, "I havena seen ye at the kirk for some time."

"No, sir," replied the man.

"And I wad like to know the reason."

"Weel, sir," replied Donald, "I hae three decided objections. Firstly, I dinna believe in sae muckle singin'; secondly, I dinna believe in bein' whaur ye dae a' the talkin', an', thirdly, an' in conclusion, 'twas there I got me wife."

The minister asked no more questions.

An English Custom.

"With all due deference, my boy, I really think our English custom at the telephone is better than saying 'hello,' as you do."

"What," asked the party of the second part, "do you say in England?"

"We say: 'Are you there?' Then, of course, if you are not there, there is no use in going on with the conversation."

WHAT IT MEANS.

The recent election in Centre County affords Republicans ample food for serious thought. This newspaper supported the Republican ticket from top to bottom, actively and lovally. As the result shows, many Republicans as individuals did not. This leads to the query: Why did such a large number of Republicans cut their ticket? The Republicans had the candidate for Sheriff, one Commissioner, and the District Attorney. They won everything else, with widely varying majorities.

As we analyze matters, three factors contributed to such defeats as the Republican ticket experienced. It is undeniably true that there has been a steady drift in favor of the Democratic party throughout the country for the last year or more. A second factor was a strong under-current of sympathy sentiment, popularly termed soldier sentiment, for the head of the Democratic ticket in the county. These two factors may have been strong enough to have elected Taylor for Sheriff. We hardly think so, but there is no way of accurately judging the matter.

The third factor entering into the situation was a deep-seated determination upon the part of both Republicans and Democrats to vote against candidates seeking more than the normal or usual term in office fixed or established by time honored custom. And this entirely regardless of the efficiency or ability or any other personal qualifications or popularity of such candidates. Mr. Brown, the Republican candidate for Sheriff, had been in office for twelve years, although not continuously. He is conceded to be exceptionally efficient. He has proved himself most obliging and courteous with the public. He is an able, experienced campaigner. But he became a candidate once too often. Drawing the fine distinction that their action should not be taken as any reflection upon his popularity or his ability, many Republicans nevertheless frankly stated days in advance of the election that they would not vote for him. Their explanation in most instances was that they believed he had received enough. Commissioner Yarnell suffered defeat for precisely the same reason. He had already served as Sheriff for four years, and had been accorded four years as Commissioner. Mr. Austin had served but one term of four years as Commissioner. He had not held office previously. He was re-elected on the Republican ticket. More Republicans voted for him than voted for Mr. Yarnell. The latter, like Mr. Brown, had become a candidate once too often. His popularity and ability were everywhere conceded, but a majority of the people who voted apparently were of the belief that he had received enough. It is no secret that the Democrats were disappointed when Register Sasserman was defeated for Republican nomination for a third term. We are inclined to share their belief that had Mr. Sasserman also been on the ticket as a third term candidate the third-term opposition probably would have brought about an even greater Republican loss, not on any personal issue but solely on the principle involved.

Standing out conspicuously is the fact that the recent election has put the third term idea out of business in Centre County, for some years to come, at least. We know it is needless to do so, but we nevertheless respectfully submit this fact to those Republican candidates who were elected on Nov. 6th while it still is fresh in their minds. The people have spoken most impressively on this point, and their decision should receive the serious consideration it deserves. Otherwise, it will be impossible for Republicans to continue in the ascendancy in the county.

We cannot refrain from extending a note of congratulation to one William D. Zerby. His was the directing hand in the Democratic campaign for Taylor for Sheriff. Some Democrats probably thought that they were the real generals, but they only thought so. Zerby emerges from the campaign with a powerful asset to support him for Democratic nomination for Judge in the near future. He will encounter opposition in his own party in the person of J. Kennedy Johnston. Other Democrats may aspire, but as matters now are shaping up the contest for Democratic nomination will probably narrow down to one between Zerby and Johnston. A lively time is ahead for the Democratic household.

JOHN C. STERE DEAD

Well Known Merchant of Unionville Died Suddenly.

John C. Stere, for many years a merchant at Unionville and one of Centre County's best known residents, died suddenly early on Sunday morning. Though he had not been in good health, he was about the town and at the store during the week preceding his death, which was due to cerebral hemorrhages. He was 73 years old.

The store which he established many years ago and is one of the leading mercantile establishments in Bald Eagle valley, has been conducted by his son, J. B., in recent years. Mr. Stere's other son, H. M., is postmaster at Unionville. Besides these two sons, he is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Susan Blair; one daughter, wife of the Rev. V. L. Wagner, of Jersey Shore; one sister and two brothers: William and Mrs. Catherine Ammerman, of Unionville; and Philip Stere, of Akron, Ohio.

The deceased was an active member of the Presbyterian church and a charter member of Lumen Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Unionville. He participated in events of his community, taking an active interest in all affairs so that he will be missed very much by a wide circle of friends.

Told to Obey Mother.

Lillian Reich, 19, of Lock Haven, taken into custody last Thursday by Robert Mingle, policeman in State College, was told by Judge Quigley, before whom she was subsequently arraigned, to obey her mother, stay away from State College and pay costs of prosecution. She was arrested on charges of larceny preferred by Clara Lightner.

OVER THE COUNTY

Football fans in Millheim are looking forward keenly to a contest between their High School eleven and the strong Bellefonte High School team on Nov. 24. A good game is expected as both teams are in fine shape.

George Goodhart and Claude Dutrow, of Centre Hall, while hunting rabbits saw a large raccoon lying on the limb of a tree. Both young men shot at the animal at the same time, and it came tumbling down. It weighed over twenty pounds and had a beautiful pelt.

A motorist with no respect for rights of others, on a recent night, drove his auto over the concrete pavement of G. E. Mensch, in Millheim, and the weight of the car caused the concrete to sink at one place and a block of the pavement was broken.

In a game of football between Juniata College versus Viscoe, at Lewistown, James Sweetwood, quarterback for the latter team, had his collar bone broken in the second quarter of the game, but helped to score a victory for his side of 10 to 0. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Sweetwood, of Centre Hall.

Levi Hartley, Penn's valley section boss, had the fortune to run across a pheasant, a ring-neck cock, and kill it. It was a very fine specimen and will be mounted. The following morning he saw a rabbit back of a clump of grass, but not having a gun with him, asked the old hare to wait. He went home for a gun and on returning found the game blinking back of the tuft as before. The next noon bunnie was meat in a potpie.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fohringer, of the Colyer district, had a run-off experience while driving through Centre Hall. Their horse fell and during the scramble the bridle bit broke. When the horse got onto its feet, it started to run and on reaching the station had gained great speed. It dashed onward, over the railroad, then turned to the left, the buggy striking a shade tree at the Benner residence. The sudden stop threw Mr. Fohringer out of the buggy onto the horse, but Mrs. Fohringer managed to hold her seat. Neither of the couple was hurt much.

The sawmill at the planing mill plant at Centre Hall station was sold to Arthur Holderman, of Tusseyville. Mr. Holderman rigged out a long trailer which was hooked to a traction engine and on this the mill was hauled to its destination.

One of those good old-fashioned corn husking bees was recently held at the Kessling home on the Clarence Rine farm at Yarnell. Among those present were: Ellis Pownell, Edward Coakley, Clair Coakley, John Shawley, Edward Mayes; Clark, Jacob, Ira, Gilbert, Charles and Mr. and Mrs. James Shaffer; James Shiffler, wife and family, Edna, May, Harry, Sara and Foster; Mrs Matilda McCloskey and family, Calvin, Eddie and Raymond; Mrs. Lucy Conaway; Mrs. Harry Kessling; Fred Kessling, wife and family, Bessie, Henry, Annie and Mabel; the Misses Agnes Millerm, Helen Walker, Violet Kessling and Sara Kessling.

A large black snake and a pussy cat had a scrap to finish, one day recently in the wood house at the John A. Heckman home, west of Centre Hall, in which Tabby came out ahead. It was a fierce combat, the noise of which attracted Mr. and Mrs. Heckman, who seeing the reptile being overcome did not interfere until the battle was definitely decided and his snakeship was down for the count of ten. Which was the aggressor is not known, for the battle was in full sway when first seen. There was no first, second or third round—the fight was continuous, the snake slashing furiously and Tabby sinking her teeth into the snake so that the crushing of the bones was heard over the swishing sounds of the snake's rapid movements. On seeing the snake was helpless on account of his back having been broken at several places, Mr. Heckman took Tabby over to his corner and was endeavoring to remove the snake from the shed when the infuriated cat again began a most vicious assault; again and again the crunching of bones was heard, and finally the snake became motionless—fought to death.

GREAT FOOTBALL GAMES

Scores of Local Teams; Many Saw State Game.

The weekend brought more football renown for Centre County's leading teams. Penn State defeated Georgia Tech on Beaver field, 7—0; Bellefonte Academy defeated Potomac State School at Cumberland, Md., 27—0; and the Bellefonte High School won from Lewistown, 32—7.

Many witnessed the game of Bezdek's eleven and the Georgia team and Wilson again was a star player, scoring the touchdown early in the game. From that point on the game was very closely contested and neither goal was in danger at any time. As a sectional game, it bestowed supremacy on the north. Palm and Bedenk did not enter the game until near the end.

The touchdowns for the High School were made by Emel, 2, and M. Waite, 3. Emel got 2 points on goal kicks. The locals were too fast forithe Lewistown eleven and played a fine game. They will face Philipsburg High next Saturday afternoon, at Philipsburg. When the latter team met Bellefonte in their first game of the season, Philipsburg was defeated easily. They are ready to put up a much better game and have been playing better, so that Bellefonte is not so confident of victory but will also have new plays to give the Philipsburg team some surprises on Saturday.

Hospital Gets Venison.

The hospital patients have been feasting on the first venison of the season, a small doe having been received at the Gettig meat market where it was seen by many local residents on Saturday. The doe, still classed as a fawn, had been chased hard by dogs which were raced from the trail about two miles from where the deer ran into a fence, the doe being so scared that it did not stop even when its pursuers had been stopped. Running into a fence one mile east of Rebersburg, its neck was broken. The dogs were not identified.

Clothing Needed at Rockview.

A request has been made by the Chaplain of the Rockview penitentiary for the following articles which will be used by the prisoners in producing a play for their entertainment on Thanksgiving day: 2 dozen pair white stockings and bloomers; 1 dozen pair women's shoes; 20 dresses, 29 to 40, and 12 men's suits and shirts. Anyone having any of the above articles to donate may notify the Y. M. C. A. and same will be called for.

NEW BELL STOCK ISSUE

Bell Telephone Company Wants Public to Own Stock.

An issue of $20,000 000 cumulative preferred stock was offered to the public by The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania this week. The price of the stock is $100 per share. It will draw an annual dividend of 6 per cent payable quarterly. The stock may be paid for in full, or if desired it may be purchased on the installment plan at the rate of $10 per share per month.

The proceeds of this new stock issue will be used to retire the indebtedness occurred in the construction of existing revenue-producing plant and to build additional like plant. The maximum number of shares which may be applied for is twenty, that limit being fixed because the company desires as many as possible of the telephone users of Pennsylvania to become stockholders and thus acquire a direct financial interest in the company.

Under existing laws dividends on this stock will be exempt from the normal Federal income tax and the stock will be exempt from the present Pennsylvania state tax of four mills.

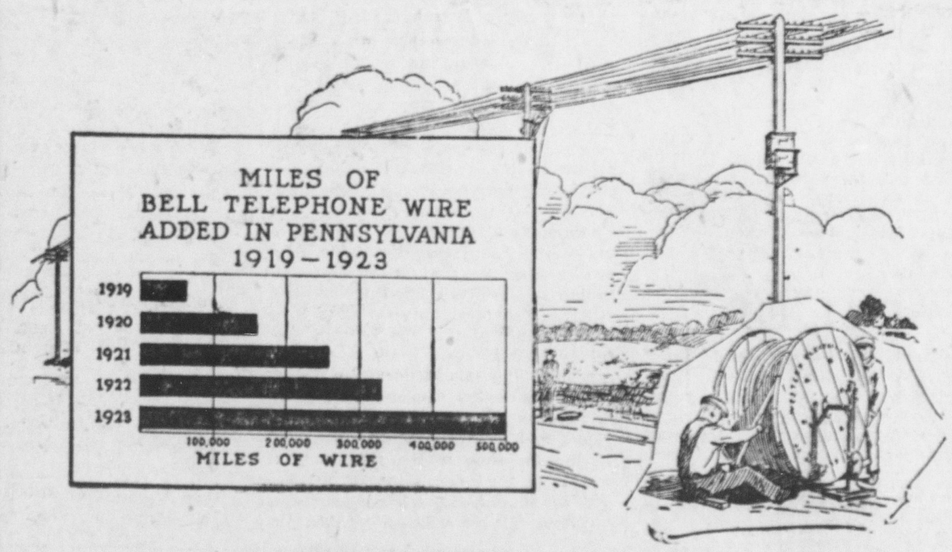
THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF THE WORLD



Half a Million Miles

To the moon and back again with enough left over to wrap around the earth.

That's how much new wire is being added to the Bell System in Pennsylvania this year.

And in 1924 we expect to add 630,000 miles.

New buildings are being constructed, twenty-two of them, thirty large additions to other buildings, ten millions of dollars' worth of new switchboards and Central Office equipment, seventy-six thousand new telephones.

Factories are working day and night, train after train is hauling the equipment.

To what end?—That the telephone system in this state may keep pace with the needs of the people.

BUILDING BIG INN

Plan for Pleasure Resort in Beautiful Seven Mountains.

Like in the days of our forefathers, the mountain inn is being built. It was a necessity when travel was by horse-driven vehicles. It was the steam-driven passenger coach and Pullman that put the institution out of commission and made mountains lonely spots.

Today we are back to the mountains again. Travel is by automobile on roads leading over the picturesque wooded hills, along beautiful streams, over great mountains with scenery indescribable. It is this coming back to mountain travel that induced W. O. Rearick, of Milroy, to re-establish a mountain inn in the Seven Mountains, having selected a site inmediately north of the spot where Foust's Hotel on Sand Mountain, sheltered the traveler on horseback, the teamster, driving a 4-or 6-horse team conveying grain or produce bound for the east.

In those days, the Foust Hotel was the Bellevue-Stratford of Centre and Mifflin counties. The Seven Mountains Inn, on Sand Mountain, now virtually under construction, will be the Ritz-Carlton of the mountain regions of Central Pennsylvania. It will be equipped with all modern conveniences and of ample size.

The main structure will be surrounded by a wide porch and to the side a spacious dining room will accommodate large parties, for special dinners. The inn will be located on the west side of the state highway on a tract of land purchased from Postmaster R. M. Smith, of Centre Hall, and on the west side of the road 10 or more acres on which is a beautiful spring of water have been acquired from Lloyd Smith, of Centre Hill.

Workmen are now engaged in removing the undergrowth and rocks from the site where the buildings will be erected.

RURAL MEETINGS

Poultrymen Will Discuss Better Methods of Production.

On Nov. 20 and 21, the Centre County Farm Bureau, with the assistance of H. D. Monroe, poultry extension specialist, will hold poultry meetings in different sections of the county.

Winter feeding, poultry diseases and other management problems will be discussed. With eggs at a very high price every poultryman should be interested in learning how to produce them most economically.

The schedule follows:

Nov. 20: 2: P. M., at farm of Frank Dashem, near Tusseyville.

Nov. 21: at 10: A. M. at farm of W. H. Weaver, west of Madisonburg. 2 P. M. at farm of L. G. Peters, near Meek's Church.

Fire at John Payne's House.

Fire early on Saturday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B Payne, on East Linn street, resulted in a loss estimated at over $1,000. The fire started about a fireplace and burned the floor considerably before being discovered. Both fire companies responded when an alarm was turned in and soon had the blaze extinguished.

Lambert—Snyder.

John Lambert, Jr., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lambert, of Bellefonte, and Miss Hazel Snyder, of Mill Hall, were united in marriage yesterday in Williamsport. They left on a honeymoon trip and will locate in Bellefonte upon their return. Their large circle of friends join with The Republican in wishing them a happy life.

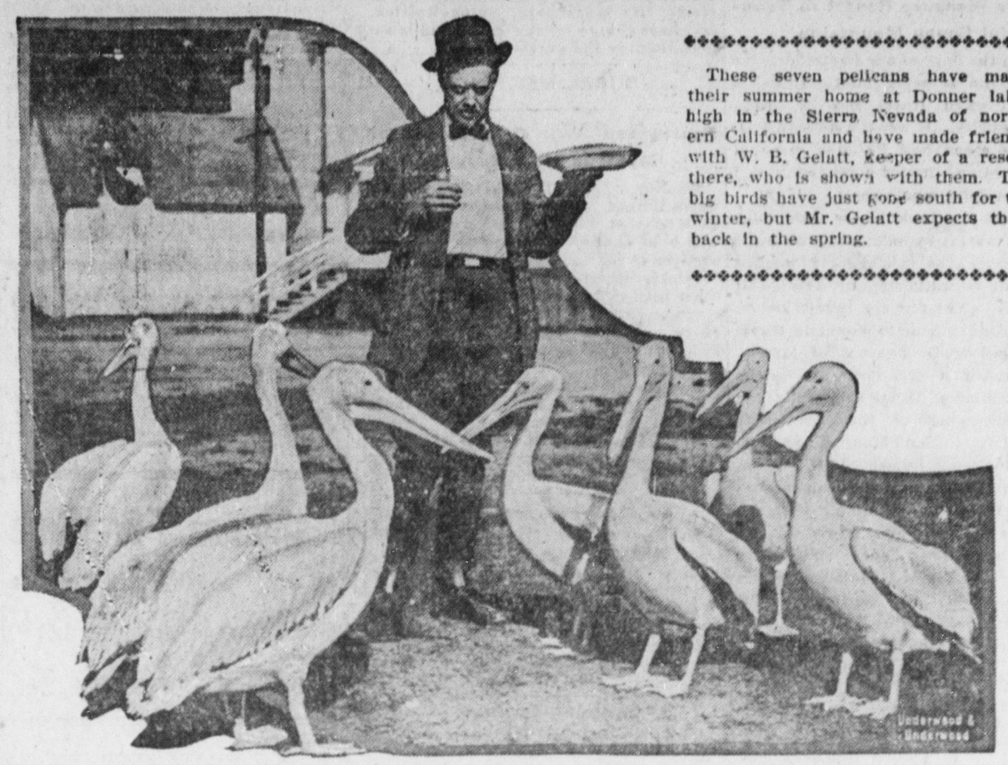
Pelicans at Their California Summer Home



These seven pelicans have made their summer home at Donner lake, high in the Sierra Nevada of northern California and have made friends with W. B. Gelatt, keeper of a resort there, who is shown with them. The big birds have just gone south for the winter, but Mr. Gelatt expects them back in the spring.

Grave of First Man Desecrated

Noted Washington Scientist Trails Humanity Back for 300,000 Years.

Washington.—The grave of the earliest man has been desecrated.

Perhaps it is more accurate to say that the burial place of the first creature whose bones have been established definitely as those of a human being is being neglected.

This is the word brought back from Germany by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of physical anthropology at the New National museum. He has just returned from a summer inspection of a number of localities in central Europe where remains of prehistoric human beings have been found.

He followed a trail, he reports, which leads at least 300,000 years into the foggy vast beyond history, and which winds through England, Belgium, France, Germany and southern Russia.

The jawbone of the earliest known man was dug up nearly a half century ago by workmen in a stone quarry near Heidelberg, Germany. German anthropologists erected a stone tablet over the spot. With the chaos of German currency since the war, the scientists have been unable to retain control of the site. It has passed into the hands of a man who, although a university graduate, has shown no sympathy with the research work. Quarrying operations have been resumed with the result that the tablet has been buried.

Visited Another Grave.

The Heidelberg man lived approximately 300,000 years ago. This fact is established by the age of the rocks in which the jawbone was found. As a basis for positive scientific data the discovery was, perhaps, the most important ever made in anthropology, according to Dr. Hrdlicka.

The Washington scientist who conducted a party of students visited one other grave which is older and which is believed to be that of a man, although probably not of an ancestor to the mankind of today. This was the spot where the jaw of the Piltsdown man was discovered in southeastern England. This creature—if he was a man—was a good many thousands of years older than the Heidelberg man.

One still older grave exists, but the humanity of its occupant is open to doubts. This is the Java man, whose teeth differ strikingly from those of any existing or known prehistoric ape and which, according to Dr. Hrdlicka, is about as near the "missing link" sought by evolutionists as any creature yet known.

The age of the skeletal remains of man's ancestors is determined by two criteria—the stone implements and the animal bones found in the locality and the age of the geological strata. In almost every case where remains have been found, Dr. Hrdlicka says, the deductions of anthropologists from the cultural remains have been sustained by geologists. Early man and the animals he hunted died together. His trail extends through the heaped bones of early horses, bison, reindeer, cave bears, mammoths and even elephants.

Oldest Relics in England.

Later researches among these remains disprove, according to Dr. Hrdlicka, the long-maintained theory that the human race originated somewhere in central Asia and migrated westward and northward. With the possible exception of the Java man, the oldest relics are found in Europe itself the oldest of all being in England.

There is one bad break in the trail, Dr. Hrdlicka says. From the Heidelberg man there is practically no record for about 200,000 years, until science reaches the grave of the Neanderthal man, also in Germany. The kinship of the Piltsdown, Java and Heidelberg men to the race of today is open to dispute. They were, beyond doubt, of a different species from the apes and bore some remarkable human characteristics. But the Neanderthal was a man in every sense of the word, although he may not have been a direct ancestor of the species which produced Shakespeare and Napoleon and Newton.

Between him and the Heidelberg man the great ice ages intervened. He came in the period of the last ice invasion, about 20,000 years ago. The race had advanced in culture during the interval. The Neanderthal man didn't just die in the open and form a meal for the wild beasts. Somewhere the idea of a Supreme Being and a future life had come in. A crude grave was hewed out for him by comrades in the rocks.

When Men Were Cannibals.

He had a brain. Although the bony structure of his head was different, the actual size of his brain was about as large as that of a human being today. A great advance in culture had been made.

The bones found in the next stage of human progress show that men were cannibals. They are broken and seem charred by fire—evidently discarded after their owners had been eaten.

There can be no question of the authenticity, especially af the later remains, Dr. Hrdlicka says. This is true also of the implements found adjacent to the bones. He claims that when flint tools show signs not only of having been carefully sharpened, but also bear handles evidently designed to be grasped by a human hand it requires no stretch of the imagination to impute them to ancient men.

In all, about 100 specimens of men who lived before the dawn of history have been recovered in Europe. They are found for the most part in caves, along river banks where the water has eaten into the rock strata, and in stone quarries. Just as Dr. Hrdlicka left Europe this summer new skeletons were found in southern France which may have an important bearing on the future of the science.

Additional discoveries, Dr. Hrdlicka says, sometimes tend to obscure the trail as well as to clarify it. It is becoming more and more useless to attempt any computation of the real age of mankind upon the earth as new remains are found from year to year.

May Be Lost to Science.

Europe is singularly rich in animal remains as well as those of men. Near Lyons, France, the skeletons of nearly 200,000 prehistoric horses are scattered. In one cave in Moravia there are enough mammoth teeth to fill a small-sized hall.

Dr. Hrdlicka brought back to the Washington Academy of Sciences, which he addressed recently, an appeal for more interest in prehistoric anthropology on the part of American scientists, lest the trail beyond records be lost again.

"The work in the past," he said, has been carried on by enthusiastic amateurs. They have accomplished much. But a great many of the younger men were killed during the war. Others were so impoverished that they cannot continue the work. The German universities, in particular, are in a pitiable state. There is no money.

"Americans could carry on this work at a comparatively small expense. Sites where human bones have been found and where probably more will be found could be leased for indefinite periods at a small sum. Otherwise there is great danger that they will be dug up by people who care nothing for science."

SURVIVES A TRAGEDY

Ada Blackjack, a full-blooded Eskimo woman, who is the lone survivor of the party of five on Wrangel island. They were in the northern wilderness for two years, completely out of communication with the rest of the world. Members of the party died from lack of food and supplies, the Eskimo woman alone surviving. She nursed and fed Knight, one of the party, for five months, and for more than two months lived close to his dead body. Many times what little food the woman had was stolen by polar bears. The party left on Wrangel island had been a part of the Stefansson expedition of 1921.

World War Cripples Total 10,745,000

Paris.—The French government estimates that the number of cripples who were victims of the World war and still survive is something more than 10,000,000. This total is estimated on the number of victims of the war living in Turkey, Bulgaria, the Baltic states, Portugal, Hungary and Japan, calculated to be over 3,000,000 and the 7,745,000 pensioned cripples officially announced from other states as follows:

Germany, 1,537,000; Australia, 706,000; Austria, 164,000; Belgium, 50,000; Canada, 45,000; United States, 157,000; Finland, 10,000; France, 1,500,000; Great Britain, 1,170,000; Italy, 800,000; Poland, 320,000; Rumania, 100,000; Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, 164,000; Russia, 775,000; Czechoslovakia, 236,000; New Zealand, 20,000.

Couple Gives Judge Problem to Solve

Grand Junction, Colo.—"If driving a wagon every day to haul washing to my wife and hauling it back again at night isn't work, then what is?" Elmer Norisang, husky and tall, asked of Police Judge Henry Grubbe.

Elmer was in court on a charge of vagrancy filed by his hard-working mate.

"That big bum," said Mrs. Norisang, pointing at her husband, "hasn't done a lick of work for three years."

It was then that Norisang asked his question which so perplexed Judge Grubbe that the case was continued with orders to both that they get the best lawyers in town to draw the fine line of distinction.

"It's too much for me," commented the judge.

This Cat Insists on Sharing Nest With Hen

Middletown, N. Y.—Charles S. Hulze of Goshen has a cat that for a while lived in a chicken house, sharing a nest with a hen. Three kittens came.

After a few days Hulze gave cat and kittens to a farmer living two miles away, because of lack of room in the nest. The mother cat weaned the kittens, left them on the farm and returned to share the nest with the hen.

SLAYER OF OFFICER GOES HOME TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Search for Muncie Murderer Ends When Body Is Discovered on Porch of Wife's House.

Muncie, Ind.—The search for Claude Michaels, forty-six years old, who shot and killed Patrolman Anthony Helis here, came to a dramatic end when Michaels committed suicide on the front porch of his wife's home, near where he murdered the policeman.

Members of Michael's family were awakened about 2:30 o'clock in the morning by a shaking of the front door, and a moment later a shot was heard. Persons in the house were too frightened to leave, but looking from the windows they could see nothing unusual. About 4:30 o'clock a newsboy passing the house saw Michaels' body lying on the porch and notified the police. Using the revolver with which the policeman was slain, Michaels had fired a bullet through his heart.

It is thought that Michaels returned to the house with the intention of killing his wife, as he had threatened to do this before his encounter with the officer. The police learned that several weeks ago Michaels told a friend that if he ever wanted to hide from authorities, he would secrete himself in the abandoned ovens of a steel company, at the south side of the city, and it is thought that this had been the hiding place of the slayer.

The inquest, which disclosed that Michaels had had no food for several days, discredited the belief that he had been harbored at the home of a friend. He was unshaved and his clothing was torn and covered with burrs.

Wounded Convict Fails in Attempt to Escape

Baltimore.—In the Union station here, with a ticket to New York in his hand and the announcer calling his train, the body of Frederick Ramos, twenty-one, failed to equal his courage and a daring break for freedom from the state penitentiary failed.

According to Ramos' story, he had planned his escape weeks ago. To scale the 24-foot wall he had improvised a hook and rope. At night he reached the top of the wall. There a guard saw him, fired, and Ramos fell outside with a broken leg. While prison authorities searched for him within the yard, Ramos crawled away and hailed a passing motorcar. He told the driver that he had been struck by a taxicab, but must get the train for New York.

At the station Ramos managed to buy a ticket and reach a seat in the concourse, but when his train was called he could not rise. Seeing the youth was injured, a railroad officer had him taken to a hospital.

Penitentiary officials found him there.

Autoist Runs Over Man Fast Asleep on Road

Boston.—Ralph Campbell of West Lynn was driving his big automobile near his home. He was passing a clump of bushes, running the machine near the side of the road.

Came a couple of bumps. Ralph jammed on the brakes. Back in the roadway was a dusty form brushing his clothes.

"Did I hit you?" inquired the autoist.

"You shure did, bo. If I don't break that habit of sleeping with my legs stuck out on the road, I'll get hurt some day."

Ralph will not even have to tell the judge how he ran over a man's legs without knowing it.

Two Sisters End Lives; Suicide Pact Indicated

Asbury Park.—The bodies of two sisters, Mrs. Gussie M. Durr, and Miss Tillie Bang, were found on a cot in their home in Ocean Grove, with the jets of a gas stove open. Nearby lay notes indicating a suicide pact.

The women, both in late forties, had often expressed the fear that one might die before the other.

On the dining room table were found two bundles of clothes, each bearing the initials of the sister for whom they apparently had been selected for burial.

Firemen Save Corpse From Burning House

Cincinnati.—When firemen, answering an alarm of fire, arrived at a home on Pendleton street here they found the body of Harry Frank, forty, shoe worker, who died recently, enveloped in flames which had been started when one of the candles ignited draperies at the head of the coffin. The shroud was already partly burned away and the coffin and building were burning. The firemen found the members of the family and friends in great confusion. When the flames had apparently been put out the firemen attempted to lift the body from the coffin, but as they did so the excelsior, with which the coffin was lined, burst into flames again. The men carried the body from the house and then returned and extinguished the fire.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

J. R. QUINN, NEW COMMANDER

National Convention at San Francisco Selects Californian to Head American Legion.

John R. Quinn of California was elected national commander of the American Legion, at the recent national convention held in San Francisco. He succeeds Alvin Owsley of Texas.

Quinn, a typical westerner of the open plains, announced he would dedicate his administration to conducting a vigorous campaign to obtain immediate passage of the ex-service men's adjusted compensation act, and a close and human contact between the disabled veterans and government agencies in charge of rehabilitation and hospitalization.

Quinn was elected on the eleventh ballot. His total vote was 502, compared with 342 for James A. Drain of Washington, D. C., 80 for Clarence R. Edwards of Boston, and 54 for Wilder S. Metcalf of Kansas.

The following national vice commanders were elected: Ryan Duffy, Fond Du Lac, Wis.; Thurman Mann, High Point, N. C.; William B. Healy, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; C. M. Stoddard, Arizona, and Lester Albert, Idaho. Ezra C. Clemens of Minnesota was elected chaplain by acclamation.

Commander Quinn renamed all appointive Legion officers: Lemuel Bolles, Seattle, national adjutant; Russell Creviston, Indianapolis, assistant adjutant; Eben Putnam, Wellesley, Mass., historian; Robert Tyndall, Indianapolis, treasurer; Robert A. Adams, Indianapolis, adjutant.

Mrs. Franklin Bishop of Leicester, Mass., was elected national president of the American Legion auxiliary.

ONE MAN GOT 245 MEMBERS

John Smith, Monahan Post, Sioux City, Ia., Sets Pace for Other Hustlers.

Membership records went flying when John A. Smith of Monahan post of the American Legion in Sioux City, Ia., staged a campaign of his own and signed up 245 new members.

Smith invaded the packing houses and stock yards, and made arrangements for 150 to join the Legion on the installment plan, their employers taking a dollar a month off their pay checks until dues had been paid.

As a result of his activities Smith won a round trip to the convention in San Francisco with pullman fare included and was decorated by National Commander Alvin Owsley when he visited Sioux City. Since his invasion of the packing houses, Smith has specialized in enrolling members by mail.

Veteran Refuses Prize Car.

John Dunphy, a big, red-headed, Irish sergeant in "A" battery of the One Hundred Fifty-first field artillery during the World war, recently tossed away a ticket which entitled him to receive a $500 automobile, because he said some other person was more deserving of it. A merchants' contest held in connection with a "fun festival" of a St. Paul post of the American Legion was enlivened by the award of a car to a certain lucky person, and Dunphy's name was the first drawn. The former soldier, busy at work "boosting" the festival, had tickets, but because he was so closely connected with the event, he refused the car when his number was selected, saying that he preferred that it go to some citizen who supported the Legion's show.

In Baseball Tournament.

Many American Legion posts in western Kansas participated in a baseball tournament, held under auspices of the Legion post at Smith Center. A purse of $750 was offered to the winner of the tournament and the winning team was sent to compete for the state championship.

TO CHECK UP ON PROGRESS

Americanism Commission of American Legion Plans to Combat Adverse Instruction in Homes.

Max M. Neumann, chairman of the Americanism Commission of the American Legion in Washington, and a former state legislator, has announced a definite plan for combating un-American teachings in home life, which have often offset patriotic instruction in schools.

"We have found in Washington that Americanism work done in schools with the children oftentimes has been counteracted by un-American teachings in the home. A plan has been worked out for use in the state whereby we are urging that examinations be made in Americanism in every grade of the schools. These examinations would be kept and taken yearly, and comparisons made as to advancement. In the event these records do not show the proper progress, the American Legion would take up the matter at its source in the home to remedy it. The examinations would not be limited to the foreign-born children, or those born of foreign parentage."

Legion men in Washington face many problems of Americanization, of which the Japanese question and anti-alien land ownership are of greatest concern, according to Mr. Neumann.

MEMORIAL TO HERMAN DAVIS

Legion in Arkansas Joins in Movement to Raise $100,000 to Mark Hero's Grave.

The American Legion in Arkansas has joined in the movement to raise $100,000 for a memorial to Herman Davis, said to have been the state's greatest World war hero. Davis' name is fourth on the list of 100 greatest heroes of the war, selected by War department officials. The man died from the effects of gas last January in almost destitute circumstances, and his body now lies in an unmarked grave near Manila, Ark. A suitable monument will be erected over the grave and a memorial shaft on the grounds of the War Memorial building is contemplated by the donors to this fund. Scholarships for Arkansas students at the state university will be endowed, if the quest for funds is successful. Department Commander Elgin C. Robertson, of Marianna, is secretary of the memorial organization.

Physicians Being Assigned.

A group of graduate physicians, who have received intensive training in neuro-psychiatric treatment in a government school in Washington, D. C., are now being assigned to Veterans' bureau hospitals in various parts of the country. The school was opened by the government with the intention of making available the services of the strongest teaching staff of experts on mental questions possible, in order that former World war soldiers of the United States might receive the benefit of their research. The instructors were drawn from the public health service, civil life, and from military service. The class of forty-four, who studied under this faculty, were paid for the time spent in training and will receive a retainer fee for consultation work with mental cases originating from war service, and handled by the Veterans' bureau.

Seeks Ex-Service Man.

National headquarters of the American Legion in Indianapolis has been asked to aid in the search for John Morgan Broaddus of El Paso, Tex., who disappeared from Long Beach, Cal., June 14, 1923, while on a vacation. Broaddus is not a Legionnaire, but his brother, Frank Broaddus, is an active member in the organization in El Paso. The missing man is twenty-two years of age; 5 feet 7 inches in height, and weighs 145 pounds. His hair is light and he has high cheek bones. When last seen he was wearing a light-brown suit and heavy tortoise-shell glasses. His mother is very ill and needs him. Any information obtainable should be forwarded to the El Paso post, No. 36, American Legion. A reward of $500 has been offered for his location.

To Raise Funds for Memorial.

That the memory of Raoul Lufberry, one of America's great flying aces, might never be dimmed, members of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations have joined in a campaign to raise funds for a memorial in Wallingford, Conn., the former home of the great flyer. The monument will be erected on Mount Tom, near the city, and a flying field will be opened bearing the hero's name.

Legionnaires as Painters.

Public spirit, muscle power and 75 gallons of paint enabled members of the American Legion post and its auxiliary in Bemidji, Minn., to apply the proper color to the $15,000 unpainted grandstand of the Beltrami County Agricultural association's fair ground. Fifty Legionnaires put on two coats of paint and members of the auxiliary unit served lunches with occasional maneuvers of the paint brushes.

Purse for Former Chaplain.

Lyman Rollins, formerly chaplain of the One Hundred First infantry, has been remembered by his comrades in Enfield, N. H., with a substantial purse presented by the Legion post in Marblehead, Mass. Rollins is suffering from the effects of being gassed while in France. He was given $2,500 by his Legion comrades.

Daniel Heim, who came to Bellefonte over two years ago and had since been the efficient superintendent of the local silk mill, has resigned to become associated with his brother, Homer, in the lumber business in Shamokin. Mr. Heim made many friends in his short stay here and they wish him continued success. His successor is Clarence Weitzel, also from Shamokin. Mr. Weitzel took charge on Saturday.

The National quartette will be in the Court House, commencing at 8:15 this Thursday evening. The special price to students of $1 25 for the six entertainments should make the Lyceum course popular as all the numbers are high grade entertainment. The second number will be given December 12th by the Phillippino quartette. This is a most novel entertainment in which the performers use fourteen different instruments.

The homes of Mrs. L. C. Green, on Ridge street, and of Fred Wright, on the old Lewistown pike, are quarantined for chicken pox.

Local dairymen have decided to increase the price of milk and cream in Bellefonte on December 1st. Milk will then sell at 12 cents per quart and cream at 12 cents per half-pint. The dairymen say the increase is made because of high prices of hay and dairy feeds.

District Attorney James C. Furst returned home last Sunday from the hunting camp of his brother, Jack, nearby Curwensville. He reports a number of pheasants bagged by various members of the party, who were principally Philadelphians, but said birds are about as scarce in that section this year as pretty nearly every other place.

DRIVE FOR HOSPITAL

rectly connected with the operating procedure should be allowed in the vicinity of an operating room. To obivate this difficulty, I recommend that the X-ray room be removed from the present position, and a door cut into the outer wall of the space now occupied by the X-ray and this space used as an ambulance admitting room; and that a doorway be cut through into the hall in the rear which will connect with the corridor in the hospital, making free passage for wheel stretchers. This lack of entrance would pass the rear of the administrative office.

3. X-Ray Laboratory.

FINDINGS. The X-ray room is too limited in size. Plate work can be done with a fair degree of ease, but fluoroscopic and treatment work would be difficult to carry on. Larger facilities are needed.

RECOMMENDATIONS. The X-ray laboratory, removed from its present position, I would recommend be placed in the room now used as the administrative office, with dark room facilities in a portion of the room now occupied as a store room across the corrdior, the remaining portion of that room to be used as a drug room in place of the drug room which would be displaced by the removal of the administrative office.

4. Utility Facilities.

FINDINGS. What is ordinarily termed "utility facilities" in a hospital, that is, facilities for sterilizing utensils, making poultices, soaking out linen, washing gloves, caring for solutions, etc., are very inadequate in this hospital. The lack of such facilities makes the work much harder for the nurses, and involves considerable loss of time.

RECOMMENDATIONS. The inadequate utility service can be overcome by putting a utility room in a new wing to be recommended, which will be of service on the first floor. On the second floor, take one of the bath rooms and transform it into a utility room by the installation of a utensil sterilizer; replace the present lavatery with a sink, with ample drainboards; install a two-hole gas plate, and provide cupboard space for solutions and supplies.

No recommendation is made for the third floor utility room on the supposition that patients will be removed from that floor.

5. Kitchen.

FINDINGS. The kitchen facilities, and the means for distributing food are very inadequate, involving an undue amount of labor without the satisfactory result of getting the food to the patients in a heated condition.

RECOMMENDATIONS. There is no adequate space in the existing hospital for a kitchen. It seems necessary to build a new structure which will include a kitchen on the ground floor, with services on the other floors to be referred to later.

In order to accommodate a sufficient number of private rooms, it will be necessary to make this wing 45 to 50 feet long, and it would be advisable to have it extended to the northeast, or, on the opposite end of the main building from the present fire escape. On the ground floor of this building, place a kitchen, diet kitchen, storage rooms for the kitchen, with new dumbwaiter service by which the food may be transported to the floors above.

6. Dining Room.

FINDINGS. The nurses at present dine in the dining room of the wooden building adjoining the hospital. The dining facilities are reasonably serviceable at the present time while the kitchen is in that building. If the kitchen be re-located it will be necessary to re-locate the dining room.

RECOMMENDATIONS. It is advisable to operate but one kitchen. Nurses should be fed from this kitchen. For ease of operation, the dining room should adjoin this kitchen. I would therefore recommend that the room on the ground floor now used as a waiting room be used as a nurses' dining room. When the new wing in built, it will adjoin the kitchen. I would further recommend that the room now used as a diet kitchen be used as a superintendent's and staff dining room. A door can be cut through from this dining room to the corridor, or through the outer wall to the kitchen.

7. Children's Service.

FINDINGS. There is no children's service, and consequently it is necessary to distribute children more or less among adults, which is always unfortunate.

RECOMMENDATIONS. Children cannot be adequately and properly cared for unless they are grouped together. They should not be in wards with adults, and they need different utility, food and bathing services than are needed by adults.

I would recommend that the first floor of the new wing, above the ground floor, be devoted to children (not less than six beds), maternity (four to six beds) and a nursery. This groups together classes of patients which are more or less related and can be handled as a unit.

8. Private Rooms.

FINDINGS. Conferences with the superintendent, members of the medical staff, and members of the Board of Managers, seem to indicate that there is pressing need for additional private rooms.

RECOMMENDATIONS. To overcome the shortage in private rooms, I would recommend that the third or top floor of the new wing be devoted to private rooms. Forty-five to fifty feet should accommodate six or seven private rooms, depending upon the space reserved for utility services and a stairway. This number of rooms appears to be all that will probably be needed.

9. Nurses' Residence.

FINDINGS. The nurses are now housed in two separate houses, one on the extreme lower part of the ground, and the other adjacent to and adjoining the hospital building. The separation of the nurses into two groups makes it difficult to properly supervise them, and is objectionable from every standpoint. Moreover, the wooden building adjoining the hospital, owing partly to the fact that it abuts a blank wall in the hopital, has inadequate light and ventilation for nurses, and several nurses are sleeping in one room, with beds closely crowded together.

RECOMMENDATION. Better residence facilities for nurses are obviously very much needed. Nearly all modern nurses' homes are built with single rooms for nurses, with appropriate common rooms which minister to the comfort and cheer of the nurses. Such facilities cannot be adequately provided except in a new building, especially designed. Owing to lack of funds, it may not be feasible and advisable for the Bellefonte Board to attempt a new building for a nurses' residence. Under these circumstances, it would be advisable to move the present building that adjoins the hospital to the rear portion of the lot, and to reconstruct it, making as many single rooms as feasible.

10. Heating Plant.

FINDINGS. The heating plant for the hospital is so located that a large amount of dirt resulting from its operation gets into the operating rooms and rooms adjacent.

RECOMMENDATIONS. The dirt and noise developed by the heating plant in its present location cannot be overcome as long as it remains where it is. Space was provided in the existing laundry and power house for one or more heating boilers. It would seem advisable to provide heating facilities at this point as soon as finances will warrant.

11. Balcony.

FINDINGS. The patients have no serviceable sun airing balcony. Such a facility is very much needed for the welfare of the patients.

RECOMMENDATIONS. I would recommend that a balcony with abundant windows that can be opened or closed, be built on the end of the building now occupied by the fire escape.

Estimated Cost.

A new wing can be built for approximately $50,000. A new stairway, balcony, and the various other reconstructions recommended, including new furnishings, should be covered by an additional $25,000.

If a new nurses' home be not built, it seems probable that all of the reconstruction and new construction I have recommended in this report would be covered by $75,000.
